

A Generous Lion

A stingy hunter sees a lion in the forest and he starts to watch it. The lion catches a big deer and it takes the dead deer to its own family to eat.

After its family has eaten the deer meat, the lion starts some of the remained but it doesn't finish the whole meat and gives it to the other lions. Hunter watches the sharing soul among the animals in astonishment. He comes back to his home feeling sad about his stingy character.

"We can learn something from everybody sometimes even from animals."

Ali's Lazy Friend

Once there was a little and naughty boy named Arda.His friends were all naughty and lazy

In the same street,there was another boy named Ali.He was clever and very hardworking.His marks were very high.He had successful projects.

One day Arda and Ali met in the street and they became friends.After a while.Ali started to study his classess less and he spent his time playing with Arda all the time.His marks got lower.He could not control himself properly.And he failed in class.

"We should select our friends carefully because a person who falls in with bad companions gradually acquires their bad habits.
